FACTS ABOUT OUR NATIONAL TREE

BANYAN TREE

The national tree of India, banyan is a very huge structure, long and deep roots and branches symbolize the country's unity. One can find banyan trees in throughout the nation. The huge sized tree acts as a shield, protects from hot sun. This is the reason why the tree is planted near homes, temples, villages and roadsides. In the rural parts of the country, banyan tree is considered as the focal point of the Panchayats and the gathering place for village councils and meetings. The tree is also considered sacred by the Hindus of India. With high medicinal value, banyan is often used as a herb to treat and cure many diseases. Given below is the description of banyan, the national tree of India.

Importance In The Indian Culture

The tradition of worshipping 'sacred' trees is prevalent among the people following Hinduism, since ages. Rig Veda and Atharva Veda stipulate that trees should be worshipped, for their inevitable role in human life. Banyan is considered one among the sacred trees. In the Hindu mythology, Lord Shiva is sometimes depicted sitting in silence, under the banyan tree, with the saints sitting at His feet. With its seemingly unending expansion, the banyan tree symbolizes eternal life. In Hindu culture, the tree is often called 'kalpavriksha', a Sanskrit word, which means 'a divine tree that fulfills wishes'. Married Hindu women worship the banyan tree to lead a long and happy married life.

Features

Banyan tree is characterized by a tangle of branches, roots and trunks. The tree is deeply rooted, which may spread across several acres. It is huge in size, thereby giving protection from hot sun. The tree bears fruits that look like figs. The fruits, which appear red in color when matured, are not edible. The dark green leaves of the tree are large and leathery. This is the reason why, the leaves are used as animal fodder. The flowers produced by the tree often attract wasps, for pollination. An old banyan tree can reach more than 656 feet in diameter and can be as tall as 98 feet. The rubber, produced from the sticky milk of banyan tree, is used for gardening.

Trivia

- The name 'banyan' is derived from Banias, who rested under the trees to discuss their strategies regarding business.
- The widest tree in the world - the Great Banyan - is located in Kolkata. The tree is about 250 years old.
- Historical records say that Alexander the Great camped under a banyan tree that was large enough to provide shelter to his army of 7000 men.
- In many parts of the world, the wood and bark of the banyan tree are used for making paper.
- People even make use of the roots of the tree to make ropes, in order to secure wood bundles.
- The sap produced by banyan tree is often used to produce shellac, a strong adhesive. It can also be used to make surface-finisher.
- Women in Nepal crush the root of the banyan tree with a paste to make a herbal product, which is used by them as a hair and skin conditioner.
- In India and Pakistan, the twigs of banyan tree are sold as toothpicks in order to promote dental health.
- Banyan tree is well known for its medicinal uses. Its sap is a medicine for treating external skin inflammations and bruising, dysentery, toothaches and ulcers. Its bark and seeds are used to produce a herbal tonic that can cool the body. Diabetic patients are also treated by the tonic made from banyan tree.

MAINTAIN YOUR PLOT – BE A GOOD NEIGHBOUR

By maintaining your plot, you contribute to Mother Nature. You become environmental friendly citizen and more than that “YOU BECOME A GOOD NEIGHBOUR”

What we do under maintenance

1. Regular watering three times a week
2. Bed cleaning will be done once in a month.
3. Cutting the grass up to ground level once in 2 months
4. Application of necessary pesticides
5. Removal all lower branches, cutting, trimming & shaping the plants as per the requirements.
6. Treatment for termites
7. Replacement of dead plants
8. Photos of the plots will be sent thrice a year.

Non Maintained Plot

1. Non Maintained plots will not be watered and no horticultural activities will be carried out by us.
2. Non Maintained farms are eyesore for the project and your neighbours plots get affected with disease and pests etc., which also spreads to the neighbouring area.
3. There can be serious fire hazards as the grass which is not cut becomes dry and catches fire very soon.
4. Stunted growth and unhealthy plants do not fetch good re-sale value for the plot.
5. There will be unattended growth of termites, which later converts into anthill and becomes a breeding place for snakes.

We have taken Mr S JAYARAMAN, an ex service man, an Ex Nk from 18 Madras Regiment as a gunman for Jain Farms & Resort, He is in possession of 12 bore Double barrel Breach loading Gun ,special model made by BIRO &Co and the weapon is capable of hitting a moving target effectively up to 150 Ft. S Jayaraman is a seasoned soldier from one of the oldest Infantry Battalions and he is well versed in handling all weapons. At night from 1930 to 0600 hrs ,he is on the move on aggressive patrolling duty on a moped driven by a security guard and has clear instructions from the management to open fire on suspicious characters found anywhere on Jain farm property .This measure has been resorted to for the well being and security of our esteemed customers staying in the farm.
